Case Against Patrolman Kleindienst.

To decide whether charges shall be filed with the Police Trial Board against Patrolman S. B. Kleindienst, of the Lumbardy while Lumbardy was waitthe case is being made today by officials of the Police Department.

While the charge against Lumbardy. who is a machinist at the navy yard, was carried on the blotter at No. 4 station house as disorderly conduct, Klein-dienst accused Lumbardy of being a "masher" and asserted that he had tried to insult a young woman.

Monday, when the case was heard in the Police Court, and the real facts made known, it developed that the young woman to whom Lumbardy tried to speak was the girl to whom he is engaged to be married, and for whom was walting in front of the store. The case was dismissed.

Kleindienst, who is attached to the Fourth precinct, but who was detailed to No. 1 to help handle the crowds in the shopping districts Christmas Eve, claimed that he was justified in making the arrest because of remarks made to him by. Lumbardy after he had requested, or ordered, the machinhad requested, or ordered, the machinist to "move on."

At the store where the arrest was made the police have received numerous complaints that "mashers" were hanging around the entrances at night when the clerks came out. Orders bave been issued to arrest anyone who attempts to molest or speak to the girls, and during the holiday week the police were given instructions to pay special attention to the "mashers."

Lumbardy came down town Saturday evening with his fiancee, and as he had some matters to look after in another part of the city, left her with the understanding that they meet in front of the department store. He was standing there when Policeman Kleindienst told him he would have to move along. Lumbardy explained that he was waiting for a young woman, but the bluecoat said that made no difference, as it was a violation of law to stand for any length of time in front of the store.
